

Kneeling—Perkins.
 1st row—Gurfinkel, Abelson, Stevens, Schneider, Baxter.
 2nd row—Kneser, Jason, Kneller.

CREW

FLASH:—"The S. S. Coed '46," an eight-man shell which was obtained through the proceeds from the scrap metal drive, held way back in the Fall of 1942, and which was never officially christened, was nicked by the bottle this Spree Day. Dr. Nunnemacher took over the coaching end of things since Dr. Melder's departure from Clark last September for a government job. It took Nunny little time to find out that not only was the crew new to him but also rowing was new to the crew. Faithfully, the fellows practiced and yet every man was new except Carl Perkins, who is coxswain. After many strained backs and many crab catching expeditions, things were beginning to look brighter for the Crew, which consisted of: A. K. Stevens, Commodore; K. Schneider, Log Keeper; H. Abelson, A. Gurfinkel, Baxter, L. Jason, Kneller, McNamara, and C. Perkins, Coxswain; Dr. Nunnemacher, Coach, and Dr. N. D. Hoyt, Assistant Coach. By the middle of November they were ready to show their power against Tech, but alas—the lake froze over. Nothing could be done in the winter months—nothing to do but to hoist a two-man shell through a second story window and store it in a biology lab for Nunny to rebuild. As PASTICCIO goes to press, the Clark University Rowing Club's Spring schedule has not been completed.