

Front Row: Robert Bartels, Richard Passler, Richard Strossenger, Gordon Moore. Second Row: Stephen Chestnut, Richard Carlin, James Terzlaff.

The 1959 Clark Crew squad was composed of an inspired group of oarsmen. Despite the late start necessitated by the early spring freeze, the Scarlets made a determined effort to bring glory with them across the finish line. Led by senior Captain Carl Erickson and under the deft supervision of Coach "Doc" Melder, the team's vigorous efforts were rewarded only with a hard-won tie. On a windy Saturday in April, one of the largest crowds in recent Crew history gathered to watch the junior varsity handily defeat a squad from the State University College of New York. The excited fans then watched in dismay as the varsity oarsmen lost an early lead to be finally caught at the finish line. The Quinsigamond Cup fought for in the race was brought back to New York and returned in November for display in the Alumni Gym. In their successive races, the Scarlets bowed to A.I.C. and Amherst on the Connecticut River as well as to strong squads from Harvard and Brown.

A significant improvement should be noticed in the coming season. Clark has engaged Dick Pierson from Marietta College to assist "Doc" this year, and returning lettermen from last year's squad, Captain Dick Carlin, Rick Rawson, Harvey Specter, Len Jacobs, Gordie Moore, Dick Strossenger, Bruce Brooks, coxswain Steve Brown and Manager Bob Fahrman, hope for a successful record. To aid these veterans are several promising newcomers. Among them are Steve Chestnut, Jim Terzlaff, Jeff Leeds, Dick Ragaini and Dave Larham. With these additions, a little patience and a few breaks, this year's shell-men should reap some rewards for their laudable efforts.

CREW

So why aren't we moving?

One ... Two ... Three ... Four!