INTERNSHIP PROPOSAL

Consult with your agency supervisor and faculty sponsor to identify your site and academic responsibilities. The proposal is typically one or two pages and must address the following five components of your internship. It should be typed in essay format. The first four parts of the proposal can be completed before you approach a faculty sponsor; however, the academic component section will be completed after your faculty sponsor has agreed to sponsor you and an academic component has been discussed.

The proposal has five components:

1. Name of the agency and geographic location, (city, state, and zip code)
2. A description of the agency and the department in which you will work.
3. Specific Tasks: Please provide as much detail as possible when discussing your responsibilities and/or special projects. What individual activities will you engage in?
4. Preparation: List all relevant courses, completed or in process, and/or extracurricular /work experience that have prepared you for this internship. Identify the learning you expect will take place in your internship, discuss skills you will develop, theories you will apply, and/or knowledge you hope to gain.
5. Academic Component: Your faculty sponsor will evaluate the success of the internship from an academic perspective. Please outline the academic component of this experience. Example: "I will be working with Professor ____ (full-time faculty member) to complete a weekly journal, read three journal articles on advertising in society, and a final research paper of 8-10 pages in length."
 - The academic component can take several forms ranging from a number of short papers to a major research report to an artistic portfolio or videotape. There is certainly room for creativity on your part. Advertising interns, for example, often do mock ad campaigns; human services interns can present case studies; and brokerage interns might put together several mock portfolios, researching and evaluating the stocks chosen. Although many faculty assign a journal as one method of evaluation, a journal alone is not sufficient. There must be one or more additional projects/assignments that can be evaluated.
 - Your final project should be equivalent to an 8-10 page paper for a one-unit internship and an 18-20 page paper for a two-unit internship.
