Some Web sites which you may find interesting:

UNEP's Global Environmental Monitoring System (GEMS/Water) has produced the *Annotated Digital Atlas of Global Water Quality*. This online atlas summarizes & displays data on 82 major watersheds for the period 1976-1990.

By using AVHRR data, ESA/ESRIN has developed the *Fire Atlas* for Africa (July 1992-June 1994), Australia (January-December 1993), & South America (January-December 1993). Online are monthly continental maps in GIF format with detected fire plotted on them. Available for downloading are monthly fire location files.

*World Meteorological Organization's Total Ozone Maps of the Northern Hemisphere* (daily ozone distribution maps from Nov. 1, 1996 through March 31, 1997)

*The UK Street Map Page provides address searching & street maps for the UK*. Currently available are street maps for Greater London & road atlas maps for the entire UK. You can also search by post code, name of place, or Ordnance Survey Grid coordinates.

*Maps: GIS Windows on Native Lands, Current Places, and History*. Numerous maps relating to the Native Peoples of North America. The maps portray information as diverse as styles of Navaho weaving to environmental threats.

*Eesti Atlas \(Estonian Atlas\)*. Online road & street maps of Estonia. Includes a name search function.

*On-line Baltic Sea Drainage Basin GIS, Map & Statistical Database*. The purpose of this database is to promote public knowledge & to stimulate research on the Baltic Sea Region. It is the result of the Baltic Drainage Basin Project, a research endeavor carried out by the EU, UNEP GRID-Arendal, & the Beijer Institute at the University of Stockholm. GIS data are available in Idrisi & ARC/INFO formats; the maps are in GIF, TIF, & EPS formats. Also available is statistical information on population, land cover, & country distribution of watershed units.

*The International Nuclear Safety Center Database* is a comprehensive resource database for safety analysis & risk evaluation of nuclear power plants. Included are country maps (based on CIA maps) with nuclear reactor locations and type of reactors indicated.
