

Gifts of Appreciated Securities

Appreciated publicly-traded Securities that have been held for more than one year provide a double tax benefit when they are used to make a gift to Clark. In addition to receiving a charitable deduction, you will also avoid capital gains tax. If you give stocks that you would like to keep in your portfolio, you can immediately repurchase them (using the cash you would have used for your charitable gift), thereby securing the same shares with a higher cost basis. Note that depreciated securities do not make a good gift to charity; rather you should sell those shares, claim the loss on your income taxes, and use the proceeds to make a cash gift to Clark.

The chart below illustrates the additional tax savings from a gift of appreciated securities versus a gift of cash.

	Cash	Appreciated Securities
Fair-Market Value	$10,000	$10,000
Cost Basis	$10,000	$4,000
Capital Gain	0	$6,000
Capital-Gain Tax (15%)	0	$900
Charitable Deduction	$10,000	$10,000
Actual Tax Savings (28%)	$2,800	$2,800
Total Tax Savings (D+F)	$2,800	$3,700

*For certain high-income taxpayers (singles above $200,000 and marrieds above $250,000) additional savings may be realized by the avoidance of the 3.8% health care surtax on investment income.
