

Alumni Aid Students During Life After Clark

The Career Connections Center (CCC) hosted their annual Life After Clark conference last month, during which alumni from several career fields volunteered their time to host workshops, participate in discussions, and provide essential advice to current students preparing for life after graduation. This year's virtual format allowed alumni to participate who otherwise would not have been able to in-person and enabled CCC to stretch the conference over a four-day period, which provided students with the ability to attend more sessions.

Session topics included anxiety and burnout during a job search, better finance management, implementing personal branding to your online search, and job-searching for international students. In addition, students were invited to networking opportunities with members of the Alumni and GOLD Councils, who spoke about their experiences after Clark.
